Violent Intruder Response Training Summary

The A.L.①.C.E. program is designed to give a person, or group of people, who may find themselves in a violent, life threatening situation, some mental and physical tools that could play a vital role in their survival. The program is designed so that anybody can employ the strategies. Young, old, male, female, it does not matter. One does not have to be police, or military trained in order to survive a violent encounter. They do need to have a frame of reference from which to draw, when making life saving decisions under extreme pressure, much like preparing for a school fire, or an earthquake.

A.L.Q.C.E is an acronym for:

- 1. Alert, notify authorities and those in harm's way of the danger at hand. It is important to be as clear and accurate with the information as possible. Remember to identify yourself, your location, the suspect information, type of weapon, direction of travel and a call back number. Don't hang up unless your safety is compromised or you are directed to by the dispatcher.
- Lockdown, or shelter in place. By locking down and barricading entry points, you are making yourself a hard target and creating a stronghold that nobody should be able to enter. Only police personnel may enter a locked down room.
- 3. Inform, give real-time updates. This can be accomplished with things such as video surveillance equipment or public address systems. Updates during a violent intruder incident allow you to make sound decisions about how to react and what steps, if any, to take next. They can also act as good distracters for the intruder.
- 4. Counter the attacker as a last resort. There have been instances where victims did not have the ability to lockdown or get out because the violent incident occurred right next to them or they were in an area that was not securable. There is also the possibility of the intruder breaching a secured room. If this is the situation then total commitment to attacking the attacker is essential. Many objects can be used as distraction devices, spread out, turn out the lights and be ready to unleash on the bad guy if he/she enters your domain.
- 5. Evacuate, or get out!! Your goal here is to put as much time and distance as possible between you and the attacker. Don't use the same rally point as with a fire or earthquake drill, you will want to move much further away from this danger zone.

Remember, there are no guarantees in an active shooter/violent intruder situation, but just as in most other emergency situations the more you know, the better your chances of survival. Be aware and TRAIN YOUR BRAIN!

Dear Dr. Hendrix and Members of the Western Boone School Board,

We are once again beginning to plan and prepare for a student trip to Europe during the summer of 2014. Jennifer Brunty and I will be collaborating on a trip to France and Spain. As world language teachers, we strongly feel that one of the greatest ways for our students to learn is through travel and cultural immersion. We have both offered a number of educational trips to our students over the years and we are very excited to work together to offer an opportunity for our students to experience both French and Spanish cultures and languages in one trip. We are asking your permission to offer a trip to France and Spain June 3-13, 2014.

Although June 2014 seems like a long time away there are many advantages to beginning the planning process this early including "early bird" promotions and the opportunity for our students to enroll now and begin earning money over the summer. It also allows us the time to plan next year's curriculum to include areas that our students will be experiencing while in France and Spain.

We have chosen to travel with NETC, the National Educational Travel Council. We have both traveled with this company on separate trips and have had excellent experiences with them. NETC is known for the educationally enriched LEAP programs which allow students to experience the culture through "hands on" activities such as cooking meals, creating art, learning local dances and role-playing history. In addition, NETC provides excellent service and offers the safety, organization and educational benefits that we require.

Enclosed you will find sample travel itineraries offered by NETC which include destinations to both France and Spain for the dates we are requesting. In order to conserve paper, the NETC website is listed below which will allow you to read more about the company and the amenities they offer.

Thank you for your consideration of this request. We are very excited about this trip and cannot wait to travel again with our students!
